About one-third of the State Senators, and 400 prominent men throughout the State, have joined in the protest asking the same thing. These letters and petitions have been taken under advisement by Judge Morton, and it is generally believed he will instruct the County Attorney to enter a nolle in the case. The case does not come on for trial for several days yet. The $7 000 delivered to the Lieutenant Governor by York still remains in the State Treasury unclaimed

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—A dispatch this morning announces the loss of the steamer Scotland in the China seas. The fate of the crew and passengers is unknown. The steamer was bound for this port and reported under charter

The owner of the wrecked steamer Prince Alfred and officers of the ship still entertain hopes that she can be saved. Captain Scholl left the wreck yesterday in charge of the first and second officers and came to the city. His act is severely criticized by maritime men

The Prince Alfred struck Duxbury reef first and went off with a hole stove in her bottom. A sail was put under her keel but to no purpose. In twenty minutes after she struck there was three feet of water in the engine room while the pump kept going. A dense fog prevailed at the time. There was no panic among the passengers. The pumps and buckets were of no avail, the water gaining steadily, and in half an hour after striking the engine fires were put out and to save the passengers and crew Capt Scholl made all sail for shore and struck among rocks near Potato Cove on the main shore. The passengers and crew landed and the former were brought safely to this city on tugs last night. She is about three hundred yards from shore and opinions differ as to the possibility of saving the ship. The prevailing opinion is that she must go to pieces. Several tugs are in the vicinity to-day trying to save portions of the cargo

The Bank of California paid $80,000 monthly dividend to-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—About 8 o'clock this evening a swarm of newsboys made their appearance on the streets, yelling "Here's your extra Sun full account of the assassination of the DeYoungs" It appeared, however, that Charles DeYoung, and Napthally, of the Sun met on Merchant street when DeYoung drew a pistol on Napthally who naturally ran up Merchant street to the entrance of Dunbar alley where a policeman intercepted him. Napthally then ran and got out an extra Sun with the blood curdling details of an attempted assassination, and appealing in large caps to the people for protection. The people are tired of the street practice of these men. There ought to be either a little law administered, or less running and better shooting on one side or the other. DeYoung denies that he drew a pistol on Napthally, and no arrests have been made. Michael DeYoung was tried this afternoon in the police court for assault and battery on a Sun newsboy, but proof did not sustain the complaint, and he was dismissed

THE LOCAL OPTION LAW NOT UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

PORTLAND, June 15, 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the Evening News of yesterday (Friday) the editor in a leading article headed "A Late Decision" gives it as his opinion that the local option law in California is unconstitutional and void, that it will not be sustained by the courts and that the better judgment of the people touch less upon high judicial authority that a constitutional character is indubitably correct. ... that a great deal of time and money have been wasted and an infinite amount of vexation endured all to no purpose. The editor in his closing paragraph tenders the following advice on his subject

The people of Oregon before whose Legislature soon to convene such a measure as the one in question is likely to be agitated may be able to profit by the discovery in constitutional law which our California neighbors have made

In this case as in many others lawyers widely differ and high judicial authority is not always infallible. At a late meeting of the Temperance Legion in San Francisco Mr Barstow a distinguished lawyer of that city, is reported in the Evening Bulletin of the 8th inst to have said that communities had a perfect right to suppress the liquor traffic the principle being the same as that which permitted the restriction of the use of firearms in large cities and the abatement of nuisances—the individual advantage must always yield to the general good that being the foundation of all law. The Supreme Court of the United States had decided that the payment of import duties on liquors did not authorize their general sale it only gave the right of sale in the original package. The speaker said he had no doubt that when the Supreme Court of California was called upon to pass on the local option law it would declare it constitutional

It was very benevolent in the editor of the Evening News to give his learned opinion on this absorbing question and to tender his advice to the people of Oregon free of charge so that they might save a great deal of time and money and an infinite amount of vexation. How timely the learned opinion! how considerate the advice! It is more than probable however that the Legislature of Oregon will follow the example of California and pass a Local Option law that the people will vote No license and that the Supreme Court of the State now that it will be strengthened by the late election of two honest Judges will sustain the law. Let the editor of the Evening News note in his memorandum book that notwithstanding his learned opinion sage advice and the other high legal authority that the irrepressible conflict between license and no license has commenced in earnest and that the final result of the contests will be the dethronement of King Alcohol and the overthrow of the liquor traffic

That the people of this State may have a correct opinion of what the

LOCAL OPTION LAW OF CALIFORNIA

Is, I annex a copy which will be interesting at this time to many of your readers

SECTION 1. From and after the passage of this Act, whenever one-fourth of the legal voters of any township incorporated city or town shall petition the Board of Supervisors of such county or the county wherein such township, incorporated city, or town is situated to call a special election to vote upon the question of "Liquor License" or "No Liquor License," the Board of Supervisors of the county receiving said petition, shall within one month after said petition is filed with the Clerk of said Board make proclamation for the holding of said election in the township incorporated city, or town as may be asked for in such petition

SEC 2. The Board of Supervisors shall by such proclamation require an election to be held within such township incorporated city or town as the case may be, on a day to be designated by such Board and within thirty days from and after the day of issuance of said proclamation. Such proclamation shall be published in a newspaper printed in the township city or town in which said election is to be held, if there be one published there in otherwise in a newspaper to be designated by such Board of Supervisors. Such a proclamation shall be published once a week for at least three weeks previous to said election

SEC 3. Said election shall be conducted and governed by the General Election Laws of this State, so far as the same are applicable thereto provided that copies of the Great Register need not be used and section 1 056 of the Political Code shall not apply to or affect such elections [Concerning proclamation by the Supervisors.]

SEC 4. The tickets to be voted at such election shall contain the words "For License" or "Against License." If a majority of the votes cast at such election "For License" or "Against License" shall contain the words "Against License," then it shall not be lawful for any Court, Board or officer to issue any license for the sale of any spirituous vinous malt or intoxicating liquors in said township city or town wherein said election may have been held at any time after the determination of the result of said election provided that nothing contained in the provisions of this Act shall prevent the issuing of license to druggists for the sale of liquors, for medicinal and manufacturing purposes

SEC 5. The Board of Supervisors shall meet as a Board within ten days after such election for the purpose of canvassing the returns and determining the results

SEC 6. If at any such elections the majority of the votes cast "For License" and "Against License" shall be "Against License" then from and after the result of said election shall have been determined by the Board of Supervisors it shall be unlawful for any person to sell or dispose of any spirituous vinous malt or other intoxicating liquors in such township incorporated city or town at any time thereafter until at any election as above provided, a majority vote in favor of such license

SEC 7. No election shall be held under this Act oftener than once in two years

THE GRAND LODGE OF GOOD TEMPLARS.—A dispatch from Boston May 27 says the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars the representative body of the largest temperance order in the world are holding their 20th annual session in the Melonaon Samuel D Hastings of Madison Wis, presiding. About 100 delegates and members are in attendance representing a majority of the order in the United States England Scotland Wales and Canada. The annual report read by the Secretary claims a membership of over 600 000. The great aim of the order as declared in the report is to secure the passage in every State and Territory of the Union of laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks and to have the result made sure and permanent by an Amendment to the Constitution of the United States totally prohibiting their importation, manufacture and sale throughout the land. The delegates from England Wales and other places represent the order as steadily growing in numbers and influence

MR SAWYER SEEKING HIS REVENGE

The country has already had some amazing evidences of the contemptible character of some of Assistant Secretary Sawyer's official acts but few persons would have thought it possible for an officer of his eminence to descend to such a depth of spite and malice as was developed to lay in connection with one of the clerks of the Treasury Department. Mr Sawyer has not entertained toward the members of the Ways and Means Committee since they made free with his official acts in connection with the Sanborn inquiry the kindliest feelings on the contrary he has denounced them in both public and private. He has also devised means to annoy them personally from time to time. The fact that Lucy C Dawes of Massachusetts was a clerk in the office of the Register of the Treasury came to the attention of Mr Sawyer and as he has done similar acts to gratify personal malice, he ordered the dismissal of Miss Dawes under the impression no doubt that she was a relative of the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, her name being the same and her residence Massachusetts. She at once upon receiving notice of dismissal signed by Sawyer sought that officer for an explanation but she was rudely treated and informed it was enough for her to know that she was discharged. She had been told previously by Sawyer's chief that it was believed that she was a relative of Mr Dawes of the House. The lady who is spoken of as one of the most capable clerks in the Department then applied to Mr Dawes, whom she had never seen and who was at that time first made known of her existence. They were not relatives of even a remote degree and Mr Dawes being determined that she should not suffer for his acts early this morning accompanied the lady to the Treasury where he had a very plain talk with Mr Richardson and demanded that the lady should be restored threatening to tell the story in the House this evening. It is needless to say that when Mr Dawes arrived at his hotel from the House this afternoon he was notified that the lady would be restored to her place. She has been in the Department for a long time and was recommended by Charles Sumner.—Wash Cor N Y Tribune

THE BISHOP CUMMINS MOVEMENT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

At the time of Bishop Cummins leaving the Episcopal Church you gave your readers some interesting accounts of the movement which in its beginning attracted no little attention. I think you will interest many of your readers by giving the following from a New York paper not in any way connected with the Episcopal Church

The New York Journal says

A week in ecclesiastical matters produces often great changes. As far as New York is concerned the Reformed Episcopal Church seems to have collapsed. For a time the movement was a success. Two preaching places were opened—Steinway Hall and Irving Hall. About eight hundred people assembled morning and evening. The expense of the halls were about forty dollars each. The collections in each place ran from $50 to $100. Bishop Cummins declined to do the work of a rector preferring that of a Bishop. He resigned the charge of the churches which he had accepted. The morning service at Steinway Hall was abandoned. At the Bishop did not preach the new congregation ... could Reformed ... Presbyterian Congregational. A WESTERN OPINION OF SECRETARY RICHARDSON.—The Louisville Courier-Journal says "If a public officer can be impeached for incompetency," asks an exchange "what ought to be done with Secretary Richardson?" Some people are of the opinion that he ought to be hanged but for our part we think that in cases of such extreme imbecility capital punishment ought to be avoided as much as possible.

The Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad Company have now about 60 men at work on their road and are pushing it forward in a very creditable manner

The work on the Olympia Tenino railroad is steadily progressing. A force of 75 white men are now engaged on the line a little beyond Squire Plumb's place

It is said that contracts have been made by the Seattle and Walla Walla railroad that give promise of an early completion of the first section of said road

A few days since 71 head of beef cattle were driven in to Seattle from east of the mountains via Snoqualmie Pass for Wadleigh & Phelps of that place the first of the season

The Olympia Transcript says the premises of Mr John Chambers were entered last Saturday during his absence and robbed of blankets clothing provisions etc to the amount of $25

It is talked in Olympia that a company has been formed with the design of buying the Orcas Island Lime Company's property and engaging in the manufacture of lime on a large scale.

Alaska puts forth its claims to rival Minnesota as a resort for invalids its winter climate averaging 30 degrees below zero, with remarkable equability as far as it can tell when the mercury is not frozen

Wool is being shipped from Olympia to San Francisco. About 7 000 pounds have already been sent away. The price paid ranged from 21 to 25 cents. Enough wool is now produced on the Sound to supply a good sized woolen mill

At the election in Bismarck recently there were 230 votes polled indicating in that village a population of over one thousand. At the election last fall, 4 ... less were polled in the county and many new settlers have since come in

Information is wanted of one Michael McMann who has been about Montana and Idaho for the past ten years. If living Michael will find it to his interest to immediately communicate with his brother Thomas at Owatonna Steel county Minn

Mr J W Bogert Secretary and Treasurer of the late Yellowstone Expedition issues his call for a new organization. He says "A party of 200 or 300 Crow warriors are about to go out against the Sioux, and at least 125 of the late command are anxious to return to the Big Horn country

The Mountain Crows are on the war path slightly we should judge for they have gone it appears to "interview the roving bands of Sioux with the design, as our Bozeman cotemporary says of collecting ornaments for their wigwams such as scalps and like legitimate trophies of Indian warfare"

The Alta has been shown specimens of gold bearing rock found near Silver Bay Alaska. The larger specimens are of white quartz with occasional masses of sulphurets of iron and very fine streaks of free gold very visible to the naked eye. Specimens sent to San Francisco for assay yielded $276 to the ton

Indian Commissioner Smith reports the total number of whites killed since January 1st only six. He has held several satisfactory councils with the Indians at both agencies. About 6 000 Ogallallahs, Sioux, Arrapahoes and Cheyennes have registered at Red Cloud and about 1 000 Brule Sioux are at Spotted Tail

The Olympia Courier says "An expedition is likely to start soon to explore the region in the vicinity of Packwood's Pass through the Cascades. Valuable mines of coal and lead are known to exist there and the object of the exploration would be to determine their exact locality preliminary to organized effort to develop them

Mr Vaughan owner of the Little Jennie mine in Montana recently sent to Brown's University Rhode Island two specimens of ore from his famous lead. A letter accompanied by a report of the assays was received showing that one specimen yielded at the rate of $1 630 58 and the other $2 105 per ton of 2 000 pounds

The Territory of Arizona (the Spanish name Arizona signifying silver bearing) embraces an area of over 100 000 square miles and has been long known as rich in deposits of gold silver and copper. Nearly two centuries ago names of more than a hundred localities of gold and silver mines were recorded many of which were worked successfully

The new Board of Trustees of the town of Tacoma have sent a message to Delegate McFadden protesting against the removal of the postoffice from the lower town to the upper. They say the proposed change will take the office outside of the city one mile or more. The city of Tacoma evidently does not think much of the railroad town

The Seattle Dispatch gives the following. The plan of operations embraced in the designs of the company represented by Captain Rittersby organized to open the Cedar Mountain coal mine include the mining and transportation of coal manufacturing of iron ship building for all of which the facilities here at hand are unparalleled and the establishment of a tri weekly line of first class propellers between this port and San Francisco

Dr J M Rice has a barrel on exhibition at Olympia that is constructed on a novel plan. Instead of staves it is formed of a thin strip of board about eight inches wide which is wrapt around a cylinder in a spiral. The joint is then secured by a narrow strip and the whole retained in position by nails. The merits claimed for these barrels are cheapness of construction strength and durability and economy in space where they form a cargo. They are peculiarly fitted for lime and flour barrels or for any similar purpose where the contents are not liquid

While the fishermen of Seattle were fishing at the mouth of Salmon Bay a day or two ago their net became foul of something in the water which proved to be an anchor, and on hauling it up it was found that an English built ship four oared pinnace was anchored to it. The oars and rudder were tied fast to the boat on the inside then she was filled with rock a little hole cut in her side to let the water in and sunk her. She was in about five or six fathoms of water and had evidently been there about two weeks. Where she is from and how she came there is yet a mystery

A delegation of three Mennonites from Pennsylvania and two from Russia have been before the Senate Committee on Public Lands, asking some action with regard to the settlement in Dakota of 40 000 members of their faith who will be obliged to leave Russia in 1881 since they refuse to perform military service. Senator Windom was instructed by the committee to prepare a bill empowering the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from public sale such lands as may be desired by them within two years. The Mennonites are a thrifty people and would add largely to the prosperity of the Territory

THE STATUE FOR ANTIETAM MONUMENT.—A Stonington Conn dispatch of May 29th says the statue for the Antietam monument was formally unvailed at Westerly R I this afternoon. The public ceremonies embraced a parade of military and civic societies, orations by Colonel Rhode of Providence and Chaplain Burdick the decoration of the statue, etc. Between four and five thousand people were present including many prominent persons from abroad. The statue is that of a soldier and is the largest figure of the kind in the country being twenty one and one-half feet high. The entire monument will be finished and dedicated in September

DEPARTMENT EXTRAVAGANCE

REPORT OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON EXPENDITURES IN THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE—IMPROPER USE OF THE CONTINGENT FUND—THE GOVERNMENT PAYS FOR HOLIDAY PRESENTS AND OTHER THINGS FOR THE PRIVATE USE OF EMPLOYEES.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice reports that the accounts have been properly kept. The amount expended under the head of contingencies from January 1 1870, to January 1 1874 were $80 874

While most of the moneys seems to have been properly and legitimately expended yet the Committee are of the opinion that a part of said sum was improperly expended but the while that this department is not an exception in this regard, but that similar expenditures are made in all the departments, and that all of them for many years past have been accustomed to make similar expenditures. The Committee are of the opinion that in this as in other departments a larger amount has been expended in fitting up rooms than the condition of the country will justify

The practice which has grown up of late in all of the departments of spending considerable sums for knives and gold pens to be given as Christmas or New Year's presents to the subordinates or others, should be discontinued. The Committee are not agreed as to the propriety or legality of the heads of departments having suitable carriages and horses to answer their purpose of going round hither and thither upon official business and to be kept at the expense of the Government, yet they are agreed that these should not be used in any way disconnected from official business that large expenditures for these matters should not be tolerated and the amount that is to be expended for these things should be specifically provided by appropriation. The practice of expending considerable sums out of the Contingent Fund to purchase portraits should be discontinued, and such things should never be purchased unless authorized by law. Small as these items are, they are evidences of extravagance which should not now be tolerated when the people are so heavily taxed and when all of our expenditures should be as small as the good of the public service will permit. The Committee are satisfied that a considerable sum could be saved in the Department of Justice for stationery and office supplies if the person whose duty it is to make these purchases would advertise for bills to furnish these articles

PACIFIC RAILWAY STATISTICS

The following tables, carefully made up for the Philadelphia Press show the unexampled growth of the profits of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific transcontinental railways from 1869 to 1873.

Bonded debt of the Central Pacific (including $27 855 680, Government subsidy)		$71 258,800
Bonded debt of the Union Pacific (including $27 236 512, Government subsidy)		66,973 024

The earnings of the two roads since their being opened from the Missouri river to the Pacific, were as follows

Year	Road	Earnings	Total
1869	Union Pacific	$5 709 183
	Central Pacific	5 670 882	$11 380 065

TUESDAY MORNING JUNE 16 1874

IN RE TEMPERANCE

Certain facts in connection with the temperance agitation now going and especially in relation to the political aspect of the subject cannot have failed to impress themselves strongly upon every thoughtful mind. We have heretofore remarked upon the peculiar, and in our opinion wholly illogical and unfeasible plan adopted by those most active in the agitation for the purpose of putting a check upon the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. Time has but strengthened the opinion expressed through these columns on the day after the praying and singing of Psalms in the saloons began that this method of dealing with the liquor question would prove ineffectual. But with this which may be denominated the religious phase of the subject, we do not propose now to deal.

What of the temperance agitation in its political relations? This is a question of deeper significance than many seem to realize, deeper we fear than is realized by most of those who are influential in promoting the cause. Temperance, as the term is now generally understood in its application to the use of ardent spirits, means neither more nor less than total abstinence. A man who drinks any liquor, for other than medicinal purposes, how little soever in amount, and at howsoever rare intervals is not to be classed as a Temperance man. A person who uses wine at his table, or does not refuse it at collations and banquets even, may be regarded as a very temperate man, but he falls short of the qualifications necessary for a Temperance man. Touch not, taste not, handle not, this is the Temperance code. We are not saying it is a good code, or the contrary. If our own ideas of the test of true temperance are a trifle less strict, it may be our ideas, and not the accepted test, that are incorrect, and certain it is that the total abstinence principle well lived up to is absolutely safe, while the same can hardly be predicated of a standard of temperance that allows the use of any intoxicating drinks whatever. So we take it that for the purposes of a system of operations against the evil of intemperance the most available platform is the one on which the Temperance people claim to stand. Touch not, taste not, handle not. This is radical and thorough, and it therefore shuts off all possible compromises.

We speak of this as the platform on which Temperance people claim to stand. This form of expression is not used hastily or unadvisedly. They claim to stand on the total abstinence principle, but they do not stand upon it in fact. Two elections have taken place lately, and in both the Temperance people have assumed the position of an organized political party and brought before the people a set of candidates to be voted for. The first was, the State and county election, in which they nominated for Governor a gentleman who is well known to be an habitual drinker—not a drunkard, but an habitual drinker—not of beer and wine on extraordinary occasions, nor of wine at his table, but of stronger drinks and in saloons. They also nominated for Secretary of State a gentleman who makes no secret of his participation in social drinking. Of the other candidates on their State ticket we can not speak positively, except as to the candidate for Congress who is a theoretical and practical total abstinence man. For present purposes it may be assumed that all the remaining candidates on their ticket were quite up to the requirements of the platform. It still remains that for Governor, the most important office within choice of the people so far as relates to the temperance legislation, the temperance people choose a drinking man.

And on their Legislative ticket the same feature was noticeable. They put out a full ticket, and, surprising as the fact may seem, a ticket made up without the slightest reference that one could perceive to the question whether the gentlemen named as candidates were in the habit of drinking or not. Take the so-called Temperance ticket throughout there was probably as great a proportion of moderate drinkers upon it as upon any other ticket in the field.

Then came the city election of yesterday. The Republicans on Friday night nominated candidates for Councilmen for the several wards of this city, and on the same evening, with a simultaneousness and unanimity so remarkable as to argue a pre-existing arrangement between the managers of the two parties the Temperance party nominated exactly the same candidates for every ward. And again there was presented the exhibition of the same disregard of their professed principles which had characterized their action in the general election two weeks before. One certainly, if no more, of their nominees was a gentleman—an excellent gentleman, too—who makes no pretense of total abstinence, and joins in a social glass whenever occasion offers.

It may be said, in behalf of the Temperance party, that in all the elections referred to it selected its candidates from the tickets put out by the other parties and consequently had but a limited number of persons to choose from. With the single remark that we see no reason why the Temperance party should have determined to choose its candidates from the tickets of the other parties at the sacrifice of its own principles, we call attention to the fact that of the three candidates for Governor put up by the other parties one was a total abstinence man, one was an occasional drinker of wines, and the third was an habitual drinker of strong drinks in saloons, and of these three the Temperance party selected the last one named. That answers the suggestion referred to as an explanation of the singular action of the Temperance party in this nomination.

Thus much for the Temperance tickets. A word about the methods by which their election has been urged by some of those who have occupied positions more or less prominent in the party. No such intemperance has been exhibited by either of the other parties in this direction. Libellous circulars, so indecent that no one could be found who was willing to claim their paternity were issued from time to time during the campaign preceding the general election, and yesterday morning before the polls were opened, another of these documents was issued and spread broadcast, which for scurrility and bald untruthfulness excelled all its predecessors. We present the precious little morsel in full that all may see whether our remarks upon this branch of the subject are not just:

VOTERS' BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE.

Voters of Portland. The Book of Remembrance is this day opened and you are called upon to choose whom ye will serve. On one hand are found prostitutes, gamblers, rumsellers, whisky topers, beer guzzlers, wine bibbers, rum suckers, hoodlums, loafers and ungodly men. On the other hand are found Christian wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the good people of Portland. You cannot serve two masters. You must be numbered with one or the other. Which will ye choose?

Remember the Temperance ticket. Vote for it early and work for it earnestly all day. It is the safe side.

Remember that this is a struggle between virtue and vice. May you be found on the side of virtue.

Remember that the success of either of the other tickets is the success of whisky—supported by bad men and polluted women.

Remember that the whisky advocates employ prostitutes to insult Christian women while praying and reading the Holy Bible.

Remember that the police of Portland arrest, fine and imprison the Christian women of Portland for reading the Bible and praying.

Remember that the police of Portland are devoted to the protection of prostitutes, drunkenness and debauchery and the persecution and punishment of virtue.

Remember that persons are known by the company they keep. Birds of a feather flock together.

Remember that R. R. Thompson, one of the whisky candidates on one of the whisky tickets served on the jury that fined and imprisoned Christian women in Portland for reading the Bible and praying.

Remember that the police and city police authority wink at the flaunting of prostitutes and silently endorse their insulting language applied to Christian women on the public streets of Portland.

Remember the honored name of our city and its inhabitants and shield them from disgrace and the rule of prostitutes and rumsellers by voting the Temperance ticket.

Vote for temperance and thereby cast your influence on the side of God and humanity for the upbuilding of a better civilization. If you vote for the opponents of temperance you vote for crime, hatred and violence, for misrule, oppression and wrong, for debauchery, pauperism and the long catalogue of vices that load the soul with heavy burden of shame and disgrace.

Remember your duty and do it so well that it will stay done forever.

Remember thy duty to the mother that bore thee, to the wife that confides in thee, to the sister that cherishes thee, to the children of thy love that they may not be cursed into being by a father unworthy to bear that sacred name.

Remember thy duty. quit you like men and be strong. Vote for temperance, virtue, morality and all the blessings they confer. Be loyal to the requirements of a better life, and thy name shall be honored among men and thy life shall be made a blessing to all who know thee.

Vote for school-houses instead of rum hells; industry instead of pauperism; factories instead of prisons; and churches instead of houses of infamy, and thy conscience shall be thy great reward, and thy children and thy children's children shall arise and call thee blessed.

Let your name be enrolled this day in the Book of Life. Be ye workers together with God for the putting down of the strong holds of sin and great shall be thy reward. Thy journey shall be made peaceful and prosperous, and thy end—life everlasting.

All who did not choose to vote for the so called Temperance ticket notwithstanding every candidate on the other ticket was a sober and temperate man, are here denounced publicly in such language as would not be tolerated in an ordinary tippling house. We are glad to know that the Christian ministers, who have been identified with the temperance movement in this city, disavowed and discountenanced this piece of blackguardism as soon as it came to their knowledge. The real authors are not known, as no one has the hardihood to father it. Nor had the Prayer League anything to do with getting it out. But its circulation has been traced to some from whom the public would naturally expect better things.

Finally, for the Temperance party to allow itself to be manipulated in the interest of other political organizations, will just as surely lead to its debauchery and destruction, and bring the cause of Temperance into disrepute as effect follows cause. This is inevitable. The Temperance question is a moral question, and the only way to make it a special political issue, is to stand close to principle and never compromise though the tickets nominated should receive small support. If there is in the movement vital principle enough to sustain it, there is enough to make it the foundation of a great party at last however small may be its beginnings. Beware of entangling alliances, and especially alliances made at the sacrifice of principle. The managers of the Temperance party may scorn this advice since it comes from an outsider. They are not charged anything for it however, and the history of the old abolition party from its feeble beginnings to its glorious triumph is an eternal witness that we are right.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE PEOPLE

The people of Multnomah county have scarcely got through with shaking hands and rejoicing at their victory over the ring rule achieved two weeks since, and now they have a still more complete and signal victory in the city election. The most sanguine of the friends of the People's ticket were not prepared for such majorities as were polled yesterday for the Independent candidates. The Ring Republican and Temperance parties combined and threw their united force upon the ranks of the People's party, but all their efforts proved of no avail. The prestige of the victory at the late general election, added to the strong conviction in the minds of the people that partyism in local affairs is inimical to their best interests, proved more than equal to the combination of the Temperance and Ring people, and the People's ticket swept the city, taking every Councilman, and that by majorities amounting in the aggregate of the three wards to [illegible]. This is the largest majority ever given in the city.

There were some features of the contest that merits especial notice. The Temperance party had evidently been manipulated by the Republican ring. This fact was so apparent that no one could fail to see it, and many good temperance people kicked out of the party traces on that account. It was considered a prostitution of the temperance cause to base purposes. Then that scurrilous circular, the "Voters' Book of Remembrance," issued by some of the Temperance people possessing more zeal than sense disgusted others of the temperance cause, and also some Republicans and turned them over to the People's ticket. Thus a majority that would have been large under different circumstances, was swelled beyond all expectation. It is doubtful whether the Republican ring could not have obtained quite as many votes for their ticket without the alliance with the Temperance party as with it all the circumstances considered.

The election does not indicate that the people of the city are ready to give up all restraints upon the traffic in intoxicating liquors. It does signify, however, as we suppose, that the people of the city are not disposed to sink every other consideration and give themselves wholly to the Total Abstinence Crusade, and also that they do not propose to vote in approval of this thing of sailing under false colors. A genuine Temperance party would have commanded more votes for its own candidates than it could possibly transfer over to the Ring under any mere pretense.

The candidates of the ring combination were very good men and were not placed in nomination because of their strong attachment to the Ring, for some of them were understood not long since, to be on the other side. They were put up simply because it was certainly known that no thorough Ring man could be elected. Had they been elected they would no doubt make good Councilmen. But they were too heavily loaded, and were defeated not for their own sins, but because of the manner of their bringing out.

It will be remembered that we charged last year that the few candidates elected by the ring were secured by repeating and other fraudulent voting. The corruption fund of nearly $4000 made up by the ring for the purposes of the ensuing election, the particulars of which have been heretofore published, was evidence of the truth of the charge. A comparison of the vote of the two years will show still further proof. A statement of the aggregate vote of the two years, respectively, is as follows:

	1873	1874
First Ward	817	[illegible]
Second Ward	[illegible]	[illegible]
Third Ward	[illegible]	[illegible]
	[illegible]	[illegible]

Here is a net loss of 446 votes since last election and yet it is well known there are more legal voters in the city now than there were then.

QUARTZ MINES OF IDAHO

It cannot be doubted that in the natural course of events the destiny of every section of this northwestern coast is and must be, intimately connected with that of every other section. The interests of Oregon and the adjacent Territories are so interwoven that they can never be separated. And as the improvement of facilities for communication increase the relations between our State and these neighboring communities will grow still closer. The pass of the Columbia is the natural outlet to the sea from all the country east of the Cascade mountains and north of the dividing line between the Columbia Valley and the Humboldt basin.

Our people, and especially the people of Portland, are, therefore, interested in all matters relating to the development of the sections thus connected with us, and will find more than a mere disinterested appreciation of the facts set forth in the report of Mr. A. Wolters, of the Government Assay Office at Boise, upon the quartz mines of middle and northern Idaho. After some prefatory remarks upon the causes of the decline of mining in that Territory, Mr. Wolters says he is well convinced, after a careful examination of the entire subject, that the mineral resources of Idaho are second to those of no other mining country, and that all that is wanted to place the Territory in the front rank in respect of this branch of industry is the judicious investment of a few hundred thousand dollars in building wagon roads through the difficult and mountainous regions and constructing suitable works for the reduction of ores.

To bring large reduction works into these districts is impossible for the simple reason that part of the machinery is too heavy to be packed on two mules, and even if this could be done the cost would be enormous and entirely out of proportion to the inducements offered. A 10-stamp mill, for instance, erected at Warren's Camp has cost over $[illegible], and as nearly all the owners of mines are working men and poor, they cannot even by cooperation raise the necessary means to secure reduction works.

Thus the miners have no market for their ores, and as they cannot afford to work or develop their mines without immediate returns, a large number of lodes carrying from 1 to 3 feet of ore, which mills from $20 to $50 per ton, are lying idle. Thus mining camps become deserted, which with a moderate amount of capital judiciously expended in the construction of roads, in the opening of the prominent lodes and the erection of suitable reduction works would within a few years yield large returns.

The local facilities for quartz mining are very good in all the different districts. The mountains abound in the most magnificent timber, the valleys [illegible] Irish [illegible] all that is needed to bring back the days of former prosperity in Middle and Northern Idaho [illegible]

Quartz mining has [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Wolters [illegible]

Special mention is made of the [illegible] Simpson, Keystone, Martinez, Hunt and Washington lodes, all of which have been well prospected and found to be quite rich. These lodes are located at various points in the Territory and their development would impart a stimulus to business of every kind throughout the country, not only by the employment of a larger number of persons in, around and about the mines, but also by the natural effect it would have in attracting population and building up other industries.

Whose Camp(b)ell(l) is it that has got its back broken now?

What are you going to do about it?

H. B. S[illegible]

Now again we ask what are you going to do about it?

TUESDAY MORNING JUNE 16 18[illegible]

CITY.

[illegible] we learn that the Feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated by the Catholic Indians at the Grand Ronde Reservation in an imposing manner. A procession of the Blessed Sacrament was [illegible] Mr. [illegible] the sermon [illegible] The Indians [illegible] worthy of the [illegible] trees on both sides of the avenue [illegible] which the procession [illegible] After [illegible] a beautiful banner [illegible] and armed with [illegible] and girls [illegible] of the priest [illegible] large number of Indians whose devotion was truly edifying. As the procession moved [illegible] children recited the Rosary or chanted sacred hymns in English [illegible] Salutes were fired at intervals and the American flag was flung to the [illegible] of the great festival. Since the advent of the Sisters [illegible] the Indians [illegible] improvement [illegible] whom they [illegible] where they [illegible] have [illegible] and [illegible] meals during school hours [illegible] large number of Indian boys who return home every evening [illegible] for them [illegible] buildings being already occupied.

ROBERT GIBBENS.—This individual who enjoys the very unenviable reputation of having shot down the lamented C. F. Schoppe [illegible] very cowardly manner while that officer was in the faithful discharge of his duty still remains in the city jail. There was no Police Court held yesterday in consequence of the municipal election and consequently no disposition whatever was made of the case. It was thought that a preliminary examination would be held, but we think there is little probability of that, as we understand Gibbens proposed to waive an examination. In that event the prisoner will be sent to the county jail and the case be referred directly to the Grand Jury now in session. Yesterday morning we were favored with a brief interview with the prisoner. He presented an unenviable appearance and appears to be in a terrible mental state. His face and the side of his head is much swollen and bruised from the heavy blow dealt him by the expiring officer. Gibbens appears to be very contrite, whether real or feigned we cannot of course tell. Most bitterly does he regret that he killed Mr. Schoppe, as he entertained a high opinion of that gentleman. The nights he avers are wholly unstrung and he shakes from head to foot as with [illegible]. He feels morally certain that he must expiate his crime with his life, and attributes the whole matter to the baneful influences of intemperance to which he has allowed himself to become addicted.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Particulars of a sad case of drowning has just reached us. On Sunday afternoon a Mrs. Gates, a small child and a man whose name we did not learn, embarked in a small sail boat several miles below Cathlamet and started for that point. At first they were favored with a good breeze and scudded along at a good speed. When about half way the wind increased to a stiff gale and finally capsized the boat. In an instant all three were struggling in the water. Almost instantly the child sank [illegible] and was seen no more. The man, who was an expert swimmer, took the woman and struck out for the shore, which was some distance. He succeeded in gaining the bank with Mrs. Gates, but the [illegible] so very [illegible] before the shore was reached she was strangled to death. The man did everything in his power to save the poor woman, but he was unable to hold her head above the surface of the water. At last account the body of the child had not been recovered. Mrs. Gates, we learn, resided at Skamokawa, some distance below Cathlamet. The unfortunate lady was on a visit to this city only a few days ago. Her relatives live a few miles out of the city.

OMISSION.—In our account of the funeral obsequies of the late Chas. F. Schoppe in yesterday's issue [illegible] unintentional omission occurred. We omitted to mention the fact that the members of the Police Department were in attendance, and acted as pall bearers. All the members of the force were present and paid the last honor and respect [illegible] dead comrade. The members were dressed in the customary uniform and wore black crape over the insignia of office. The [illegible] each side of the hearse [illegible] in front and to the rear [illegible] the body of the dead officer [illegible] his proper uniform with the star on the left breast partially concealed by the [illegible] emblem of mourning and [illegible] measured tread to the sweet [illegible] strains of the funeral dirge they [illegible] appearance and one which [illegible] fail to impress the hundreds of spectators.

CAPTURED.—The evening cotemporary says: The wood choppers and others in the vicinity of Albina have of late been visited by burglars who have entered their cabins during the [illegible] and removed them of their contents. [illegible] since a man entered [illegible] McNaughton's cabin by way of the chimney and relieved it of all its valuable contents. [illegible] has ever since devoted his time [illegible] to the tracking of the thief. To-day [illegible] He captured his man, who [illegible] seems to have had a rendezvous in the woods near [illegible] and brought him to East Portland, where he will be examined to-morrow before Recorder Newell.

THE B[illegible] H[illegible]—Some weeks ago the [illegible] ran [illegible] a submerged log down the river and [illegible] off the end of one propeller shaft. [illegible] with the remaining propeller [illegible] to bring [illegible] to this city. The new propeller [illegible] work [illegible]

CITY.

Feast of Corpus Christi—From the Sentinel we learn that the Feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated by the Catholic Indians at the Grand Ronde Reservation in an imposing manner. A procession of the Blessed Sacrament was inaugurated and carried out with becoming solemnity Mr Sinnott the agent in charge, lent his aid in making the occasion worthy of the object The Indians too exhibited their zeal by planting rows of young fir trees on both sides of the avenue through which the procession had to pass After the celebration of solemn high mass the procession moved from the church. First came a beautiful banner followed by a guard of honor of thirty Indian braves with uniform and armed with muskets next came the boys and girls in attendance at the Sisters school in double file after these came four girls dressed in white who scattered flowers in front of the priest. The procession was closed by a large number of Indians whose devotion was truly edifying As the procession moved the children recited the Rosary or chanted sacred hymns in English or jargon Salutes were fired at intervals, and the American flag was flung to the breeze in honor of the great festival Since the advent of the Sisters among the Indians of this Reservation a marked improvement is visible in their demeanor The Sisters have now twenty five Indian girls whom they board, clothe and educate. They have also a boys school where they educate and furnish meals during school hours to a large number of Indian boys who return home every evening, as there is no accommodations for them, the present buildings being already occupied.

Robert Gibbens—This individual who enjoys the very unenviable reputation of having shot down the lamented C. F Schoppe in a very cowardly manner while that officer was in the faithful discharge of his duty, still remains in the city jail There was no Police Court held yesterday in consequence of the municipal election and consequently no disposition whatever was made of the case It was thought that a preliminary examination would be held, but we think there is but little probability of that, as we understand Gibbens proposes to waive an examination In that event, the prisoner will be sent to the county jail and the case be referred directly to the Grand Jury, now in session Yesterday morning we were favored with a brief interview with the prisoner He presented a most woebegone aspect, and appears to be in a terrible mental state His face and the side of his head is much swollen and bruised from the heavy blow dealt him by the expiring officer Gibbens appears to be very contrite whether real or feigned we cannot of course tell. Most bitterly does he regret that he killed Mr Schoppe, as he entertained a high opinion of that gentleman. The man s nerves are wholly unstrung and he shakes from head to foot as with an ague fit. He feels morally certain that he must expiate his crime with his life, and attributes the whole matter to the baneful influences of intemperance, to which he has allowed himself to become addicted

Sad Accident—Particulars of a sad case of drowning has just reached us On Sunday afternoon a Mrs Gates, a small child, and a man whose name we did not learn, embarked in a small sail boat several miles below Cathlamet, and started for that point At first they were favored with a good breeze, and scudded along at a good speed. When about half way, the wind increased to a stiff gale and finally capsized the boat In an instant all three were struggling in the water Almost instantly the child sank from sight and was seen no more. The man, who was an expert swimmer took the woman and started for the shore which was some distance He succeeded in gaining the bank with Mrs Gates, but the river was so very rough that before the shore was reached she was strangled to death The man did everything in his power to save the poor woman, but he was unable to hold her head above the surface of the water. At last accounts the body of the child had not been recovered. Mrs Gates we learn, resided at Skamokawa, some distance below Cathlamet The unfortunate lady was on a visit to this city only a few days ago Her relatives live a few miles east of this city

Omission—In our account of the funeral obsequies of the late Chas F. Schoppe in yesterday s issue, an unintentional omission occurred We entirely omitted to mention the fact that the members of the Police Department were in attendance and acted as pall bearers All the members of the force were present and paid the last honor and respect due their dead comrade The members were dressed in the customary uniform and wore black crape over the insignia of office They were ranged along on each side of the hearse also in front and to the rear of the vehicle containing the body of the dead officer Clad in the proper uniform with the stars on the left breast partially concealed by the significant emblem of mourning and marching with measured tread to the sweet melancholy strains of the funeral dirge, they presented a very noticeable appearance and one which did not fail to impress the hundreds of spectators

Captured—The evening contemporary says "The wood-choppers and others in the vicinity of Albina have of late been visited by burglars who have entered their cabins during their absence, and relieved them of their contents But a short time since a man entered P S McNaughton s cabin, by way of the chimney and relieved it of all its valuable contents and that gentleman has ever since devoted his energies to the tracking of the thief To day about 11 o'clock, he captured his man who, it seems, has had a rendezvous in the woods near by and brought him to East Portland where he will be examined to morrow before Recorder Newell."

The Ben Holladay—Some weeks ago this tug ran afoul of a submerged log down the river, and snapped off the end of one propeller blade. However, with the remaining propeller, although it was damaged, the tug managed to bring the tow up to this city Two new propellers were cast last week at the foundry, which are designed to take the place of the lost and damaged screws A few days since the tug proceeded down the river with the barkentine Mattie Mackay After reaching Astoria the Ben Holladay will be beached and two propellers attached

Bank Opened—Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock the Hibernian Savings and Loan Bank an institution which has recently been organized in Portland, was opened Throughout the day the cashier and clerks were kept quite busy in receiving deposits and attending to the wants of customers Assurances of a very [illegible] character have been given that this new banking institution commences business on a secure foundation and with ample means at hand to supply the business wants of the community

Sent Back—Last Saturday the motion made by the District Attorney to hold R J Ladd to answer the charge of embezzling bound over before the Grand Jury was argued at length in the Circuit Court It was ascertained that the present Grand Jury had made no proper presentment but simply indorsed the papers in the case "not a true bill" The court ordered that the whole matter be referred back to the Grand Jury with instructions to bring their findings into court in the proper manner

Treasure Shipment—During the month of May the following amount of treasure have been shipped from this port to San Francisco by Wells, Fargo & Co Currency $11,[illegible] 10 gold coin, $140,670 50 bullion, $[illegible] 10 silver coin $5,181 By a comparison with amounts shipped during preceding months it will be seen that there is a decided increase

Reserved Seats—Persons who desire to procure reserved seats for the musical and literary entertainment to be given this evening at Oro Fino Theater, under the auspices of and for the benefit of the First Congregational Church can do so by applying to George L DePrans at his Musical Depot No 71 First street Box office will open this morning at 9 o clock

Annual Association—The Annual Conference of the Congregational ministers and church delegations in this State and the adjoining Territories, takes place at Olympia on Thursday next The usual arrangements have been made for the accommodation of ministers and a large attendance is confidently looked forward to.

THE CITY ELECTION.

The municipal election of Portland passed off remarkably quiet A more orderly and peaceable election has not transpired in this city for some years Scarcely a brawl or street fight disturbed the equanimity of public feelings, and but very few intoxicated persons were observed There was much hard earnest work done by both parties but good feeling characterized the day s proceedings It is needless to add that the contest resulted in the triumphant election of every man on the People s Ticket over which every good citizen who earnestly desires reform and retrenchment in the administration of the city government and the reduction of taxation will have reason to rejoice Voting commenced at 9 o'clock A M and continued without intermission until 6 o clock when the polls were closed and the counting commenced at once The gratifying result (to the victorious party of course) was soon known, and is as follows

RECAPITULATION

Total vote of the city	[illegible]
Aggregate majority for Independent Ticket	[illegible]

Soon after the result of the contest in the several wards was fully known a band of music commenced discoursing animated strains in celebration of the glorious victory Sky rockets and bombs were fired off, and their incessant clatter and roar added to the public voice of rejoicing Crowds collected at the corners and on the streets to participate in the celebration of the victory gained by the people, and to join in hearty congratulations It was an occasion which we venture will long be remembered with mingled feelings of pride and pleasure, for years to come Later in the evening the band followed by a concourse of several hundred citizens visited the residences of the newly elected Councilmen and serenaded them Everywhere they met with a most cordial reception and short addresses were made by the victorious candidates in response to the serenade. Mayor Failing s residence was also visited by the band and in response to calls that gentleman made his appearance on the balcony and delivered a neat little speech in which he did not fail to congratulate the citizens on the great victory which has been achieved in Portland At a late hour the crowds dispersed.

Plain English.

There is no good reason why an English speaking people should be doctored in Latin If we should describe the properties of Hostetter s Stomach Bitters in the jargon of the profession not one reader in twenty would understand what it is good for We prefer to say in simple words that it possesses strengthening regulating and purifying qualities of the highest order that the vegetable ingredients of which it is composed are eminently wholesome and salutary and that the stimulant which is combined with them is the purest that can be manufactured We prescribe it not in the garbled Latin but in the good old mother tongue as a remedy for languor debility, nervousness indigestion liver complaint fever and ague constipation rheumatism and low spirits and as a preventive of every disease produced by foul air whether it stagnates in crowded work rooms or imperils life and health in swampy districts and new clearings So the masses say and so they have been saying for the last twenty years

UNION TEMPERANCE MEETING.

The meeting at the Taylor street Methodist church last night was well attended several speakers occupied the floor and at the close the following report of a committee appointed at the noon meeting yesterday was read and adopted

PORTLAND June 15 1874

Your Committee appointed at the noon meeting to day to inquire into the origin of a circular entitled "The Voters Book of Remembrance" and report this evening respectfully submit the following

Having made due investigation we are led to believe that said circular had its origin in the intemperate zeal of one who though a friend yet bears no responsible relation to the present Temperance movement that it was published without having been referred to the Woman s Prayer League the Temperance Nominating Committee or the pastors of the Churches interested We would also state that while we deprecate the style and spirit of the circular as also the unwarranted publication of the same we have failed to find anything that would inculpate the author in intentional wrong or just an imputation upon his sincerity as a worker in the Temperance movement We would further recommend the adoption by this meeting of the circular of disapproval hereunto appended:

VOTERS BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE

WHEREAS A circular with the above heading has been distributed through this city to day and

WHEREAS There is danger of misapprehension respecting its origination; therefore we the undersigned and those we represent take this method of informing the citizens of Portland that it was prepared and published without our knowledge and we most emphatically disapprove it

TAKING THE CHANCES

AN INCIDENT IN THE WAR OF MEXICAN INDEPENDENCE

The following thrilling narrative is from a translation. A captain of the Mexican insurgent army is giving an account of a meditated night attack upon a hacienda situated in the Cordilleras and occupied by a large force of Spanish soldiers. After a variety of details he continues:

Having arrived at the hacienda unperceived, thanks to the obscurity of a moonless night, we came to a halt under some large trees at some distance from the building, and I rode forward from my troop in order to reconnoitre the place. The hacienda, so far as I could see in gliding across, formed a huge massive parallelogram strengthened by enormous buttresses of hewn stone. Along this chasm the walls of the hacienda almost formed the continuation of another perpendicular one chiseled by Nature herself in the rocks to the bottom of which the eye could not penetrate for mists which incessantly boiled up from below and did not allow it to measure their awful depth. This place was known in the country by the name of The Valadero.

"I had explored all sides of the building excepting this, when I know not what scruple of military honor incited me to continue my ride along the ravine which protected the rear of the hacienda. Between the walls and the precipice there was a narrow pathway about six feet wide. By day the passage would have been dangerous, but by night it was a perilous enterprise. The walls of the farm took an extensive sweep, the path crept around their entire basement, and to follow it to the end in the darkness only two paces from the edge of a perpendicular chasm was no very easy task, even for as practiced a horseman as myself. Nevertheless, I did not hesitate, but boldly urged my horse between the walls of the farm house and the abyss of the Valadero. I had got over half the distance without accident when, all of a sudden, my horse neighed aloud. This neigh made me shudder. I had just reached a pass where the ground was just wide enough for the four legs of a horse and it was impossible to retrace my steps.

"Hello," I exclaimed aloud at the risk of betraying myself, which was even less dangerous than encountering horsemen in front of me on such a road. "There is a Christian passing along the ravine. Keep back."

It was too late. At that moment a man on horseback passed around one of the buttresses which here and there obstructed this accursed pathway. He advanced toward me.

"For the love of God can you return?" I exclaimed, terrified at the fearful situation in which we both were placed.

"Impossible," replied the horseman.

I recommended my soul to God. To turn our horses round for want of room, to back them along the path we had traveled, or even to dismount from them—these were three impossibilities, which placed us both in the presence of a fearful doom. Between two horsemen so placed upon this fearful path, had they been father and son, one of them must inevitably have become the prey of the abyss. But a few seconds had passed and we were already face to face—the unknown and myself. Our horses were head to head and their nostrils dilated with terror, mingled together their fiery breathings. Both of us halted in a dead silence. Above was the smooth and lofty wall of the hacienda on the other side, but three feet distant from the wall opened the horrible gulf. Was it an enemy I had before my eyes? The love of my country which boiled at the period in my young bosom led me to hope it was.

"Are you for Mexico and the Insurgents?" I exclaimed in a moment of excitement, ready to spring upon the unknown horseman, if he answered me in the negative.

"Mexico e Insurgente—That is my password," replied the cavalier. "I am the Colonel, Garduno."

"I am the Captain Castanos."

"Our acquaintance was of long standing, and, but for mutual agitation, we should have had no need to exchange our names. The Colonel had left us two days since, at the head of the detachment, which he supposed to be either prisoners or cut off, for he had not been seen to return to camp.

"Well, Colonel," I exclaimed, "I am sorry you are not a Spaniard, for, you perceive that one of us must yield the pathway to the other."

Our horses had the bridles on their necks, and I put my hands to the holster of my saddle to draw out my pistols.

"I see so plainly," returned the Colonel, with alarming coolness, "that I should already have blown out the brains of your horse but for the fear lest mine, in a moment of terror, should precipitate me, with yourself, to the bottom of the abyss."

"I remarked, in fact, that the Colonel already held his pistols in his hands. We both maintained almost profound silence. Our horses felt the danger like ourselves and remained as immovable as if their feet were nailed to the ground. My excitement had entirely subsided. "What are we going to do?" demanded of the Colonel.

"Draw lots to see which of the two shall leap into the ravine."

It was in truth the sole means of resolving the difficulty. "There are nevertheless, some precautions to take," said the Colonel.

"He who shall be condemned by the lot shall retire backward. It will be but feeble chance for escape for him, I admit, but, in short, there is a chance and especially in favor of the winner."

"You cling not to life then," I cried out, terrified at the sang froid with which this proposition was put to me.

"I cling to life more than yourself," sharply replied the Colonel, "for I have a mortal outrage to avenge. But the time is fast slipping away. Are you ready to proceed to draw the last lottery at which one of us will ever exist?"

How were we to proceed to this drawing by lot? By means of the wet finger, like the schoolboys? Both ways were impracticable. Our hands imprudently stretched out over the heads of our frightened horses might give them a fatal start. Should we toss up a piece of coin, the night was too dark to enable us to distinguish which side fell upward. The Colonel bethought him of an expedient of which I should never have dreamed.

"Listen to me, Captain," said the Colonel, to whom I had communicated my perplexities. "I have another way. The terror which our horses feel makes them draw every moment a burning breath. The first of us two whose horse shall neigh—"

"Wins!" I exclaimed hastily.

"Not so, shall be loser. I know that you are a countryman and, as such, can do whatever you please with your horse. As to myself, who but last year wore the gown of a theological student, I fear your equestrian prowess. You may be able to make your horse neigh; to hinder him from doing so is a very different matter."

We waited in deep and anxious silence until the voice of one of our horses should break forth. The silence lasted for a minute, for an age. It was my horse who neighed first. The Colonel gave no external manifestation of his joy, but, no doubt, he thanked God to the very bottom of his heart.

"You will allow me a minute to make my peace with Heaven?" said I with failing voice.

"Will five minutes be sufficient?"

The Colonel pulled out his watch. I addressed towards the heavens, brilliant with stars which I thought I was looking to for the last time, with an intense and burning prayer.

"It is time," said the Colonel.

I answered nothing, and with a firm hand gathered up the bridle of my horse and drew it within my fingers, which were agitated with a nervous tremor.

"Yet one moment more," I said to the Colonel, "for I have need of all my coolness to carry into execution the fearful maneuvre which I am about to commence."

"Granted," replied Garduno.

My education has been in the country. My childhood and part of my earliest youth had almost been passed on horseback. I may say, without flattering myself, that if there was any one in the world capable of executing the [illegible] equestrian feat, it was myself. I rallied myself with almost a supernatural effort and succeeded in recovering my entire self possession in the very face of death. Taking it at the worst, I had already braved [illegible] to be any longer alarmed at [illegible]. As soon as my horse felt for the first time since my rencontre with the Colonel the bit compressing his mouth, I perceived that he trembled beneath me. I strengthened my grip and [illegible] my stirrups to make the terrified animal understand that his master no longer trembled. I held him up with bridle and the ham as every good horseman does in a dangerous passage, and with the bridle the body and the spur together succeeded in backing him a few [illegible]. [illegible] was already farther from the horse of the Colonel, who encouraged me all he could with his voice.

This done, I let the poor trembling brute, who obeyed me in spite of terror, repose for a few moments, and then recommenced the same maneuver. All of a sudden I felt his hind legs give way under me. A horrible shudder ran through my whole frame. I closed my eyes as if about to roll to the bottom of the abyss and I gave to my body a sudden impulse on the side next the hacienda, the surface of which offered not a single projection nor a tuft of weeds to check my descent. This sudden movement joined to the desperate struggle of my horse was the salvation of my life. [illegible] sprang up again on his legs [illegible] with desperate [illegible].

I had succeeded in reaching, between the brink of the precipice and the wall of the building, a spot some five inches broader. A few more would have enabled me to turn him round, but to attempt it here would have been fatal, and I dared not venture. I sought to resume my backward progress step by step. Twice the horse threw himself on his hind legs and fell down upon the same spot. It was in vain to urge him anew either with voice, bridle or spur; the animal obstinately refused to take a single step in the rear. Nevertheless, I did not feel my courage yet exhausted [illegible] desire to die. One last, solitary chance of safety suddenly appeared to me like a flash of light and I resolved to employ it. Through the fastening of my boot, and in reach of my hand, I was [illegible] a sharp and keen knife which I drew forth from its sheath. With my left hand I began caressing the mane of my horse, all the while letting him hear my voice.

The poor animal replied to my caresses by a plaintive neighing, then, not to alarm him, my hand followed by little and little the curve of his nervous neck, and finally rested upon the spot where the last of the vertebrae unites itself with the cranium. The horse trembled, but I calmed him with my voice. When I felt his very life, so to speak, palpitate in his brain beneath my fingers, I leaned over towards the wall, my feet gently slid from the stirrups, and with one vigorous blow I buried the pointed blade of my knife into the seat of the vital principal. The animal fell as if thunder struck, without a single motion, and for myself, my knees almost as high as my chin, I found myself a-horseback across a corpse. I was saved. I uttered a triumphant cry, which was responded to by the Colonel, and which the abyss re-echoed with a hollow sound, as if it felt that its prey had escaped it. I quitted the saddle, sat down between the wall and the body of my horse, and vigorously pushed with my feet against the carcass of the wretched animal, which rolled down into the abyss. I then arose and cleared at a few bounds the distance which separated the place where I was from the plain, and, under the irresistible reaction of the terror which I had long repressed, I sank into a swoon upon the ground.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY EVENING, June 1 [illegible], 1874

Gold in New York, 111¼.

Portland Legal Tenders buying 89½, selling 90½.

Gold bars are quotable at "2oz"50 fine.

Exchange on New York ¼ per cent. premium for currency and one per cent. premium for gold.

Exchange on San Francisco at ¼ of 1 per cent premium.

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 12s 7d@12s 10d for average California and 12s 1[illegible]d@13s for club.

In local financial matters there is but little of interest transpiring. The daily record of the situation for the past four weeks would very nearly answer as well for to-day and in all probability would require but slight alterations for the same length of time to come. By then the demand for ready money to move the crops will set in, and that requirement will draw largely from the surplus capital now seeking investment in other directions. About the only change now apparent is an increase in the volume of money accumulating for which an outlet will, we believe, be m[illegible] sought after a while.

An exchange from New York thus gives the situation of affairs there before the conference committee had reported the finance bill the passage of which was announced in our last issue:

The public mind is daily becoming more indifferent in reference to the action of Congress on the currency question, and with the exception of a slight feeling of uncertainty as to legislation, which unites with other causes to produce some dullness in business, that body goes on its way unheeded. Nor is there anything in the position of affairs in Washington to disturb the general expectation that nothing is to be done. The question at present is in the hands of a conference committee, of which no one can say what it may do, because its members hold widely different views, while the range of propositions submitted to them for selection contains absolutely nothing which the President is likely to approve. It would seem almost certain, moreover, that nothing can come from the conference committee that will become a law, because if they submit anything that Congress will accept, it is probable that the President would veto it, and if they submit anything that the President could approve, Congress would in all probability reject it.

Miscellaneous.

The total immigration of the last fiscal year was 451,003, males 275,792, females 184,011, an increase of 54,997 or 13½ per cent. over the preceding year. The estimated average value of an immigrant is $800, so that the nation is worth, through the new comer, $367,812,400 more than it would be without them.

In the Nova Scotia House of Assembly a resolution has been introduced calling attention to the fact that the United States imposed a duty on coal while the Dominion admitted American coal free, and declaring that the Government ought to impose the same duty on coal as is imposed by the United States on Nova Scotia coal.

A very influential committee representing several of the largest manufacturing interests in the United States appeared before the Committee of Ways and Means recently and urged an increase of duty on imported articles manufactured from iron and steel, also on cotton and woolen fabrics. General Patterson of Philadelphia stated that he was willing to sell all his cotton mills at half their cost, and he also intimated that unless there was some relief he would be obliged to stop work forthwith.
